CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

This is our Christmas number,
Although not twice the size ;
There is no sign of winter,
The cover to disguise.
And yet before next issue,
The nuts will all be gone ;
The turkey will have vanished,
Together with bon-bon,
The dates, the figs, the puddings,
Will all have done their best
To satisfy one's palate,
And cause pains in the chest.
The little children's stockings,
From bed rail will be cleared
As soon as Father Beaver,
Has brushed them with his beard.
But at the time of writing,
All this has yet to come ;
So do not be downhearted
Or let your face look glum.
This merry feast of Christmas
Comes round but once a year ;
When each one sends his greetings,
To friends both far and near.
When mother gives to father,
A present she has bought,
With father's hard earned money,
That's how we men are caught.
But when it comes to wife's,
That's quite a different tale ;
She sends Pa out to buy it,
At En and Swadgers sale.
Of course he finds the money,
Or hopes to some fine day ;
It is the old old story,
Poor father has to pay.
But do not let us worry,
O'er trifles such as these ;
Some wives as well as husbands,
Are very hard to please.
The best of all good wishes,
Now please accept from me ;
May good luck e'er be with you,
Through nineteen-twenty-three.

OUT AND ABOUT.

LOST ! A big drum !! This very desirable article was taken from the Institute recently, and belonged to a dance orchestra. Who on earth or in Brentham could have taken it ? Surely not anyone in Brentham, since it is unimaginable that anyone in a place renowned for the modest bearing of its inhabitants could wish to beat the big drum. Besides, Brenthamites are a musical people, and a drum is not exactly an instrument with which to entertain one's neighbours. Yet there is room for an alternative theory, for a drum is not an outhouse or a hut within the meaning of the bye-law, and it is not likely that a drum used as a hen-house or a bicycle shed would cause its possessor to arouse the ire of "the Brownies' giant," as "Atoms" personified the system of government in Brentham.

Our sleuth-hounds, then, must look out for something unique in the way of outhouses. They must expect to find it somewhat disguised, and are advised to listen for the sound emitted when a well-aimed half-brick hits it well in the "tummy."

Now that the Grounds Scheme is quite safe we look for an immediate effort at tackling the New Hall. That new hall is, we believe, nearer to our reach than most people imagine, and it is for that reason that we hope that the Central Committee will not even consider the tinkering scheme set forth in this issue by the Secretary of the Players. Our present hall is already too long for its height, and it would be with dismay we should watch any tampering with the Small Hall. Full steam ahead then for a New Hall with the Players leading the crusade.

The Handbook, Winter season, has arrived just in time not to be too late. It contains full information regarding such undoubtedly winter-time activities as hockey and football, and such all the year round relaxations as golf, card-playing and dancing, but we also find cricket, tennis and bowls dealt with exhaustively and extensively, if somewhat unseasonably. But that may prove a blessing next June when we are awaiting the issue of the Summer number. The Institute membership fees given are those for the full year, and will be valuable information on New Year's Day. Very useful, had they been given, would have been the reduced fees for membership available for the first few months of the winter season, expiring on the 31st December. The extracts from the Bye-laws again leave the position of weekly and monthly visitors in regard to Sunday play somewhat uncertain. That, of course, is the fault of the bye-laws.

Try Gordge for Hosiery.

We are sad at noting a somewhat humorous style cropping out in a few places in the pages of what should be, we think, a severely official publication : The Athletic Club Secretary mentions, in his record of the winning of the Thornton Cup and the triumphal return therewith, the impression made upon "a good many localities on the line of route," and finishes off with THE Joke of the whole book : "There is a vacancy for a good Secretary in this Section." At least two men would be required for filling any vacancy left by our old friend "Joe." The Tennis Club information looks ahead to the "Installation of Hard Courts," and boldly offers consolation to members "who need not then worry about being left off the Football and Hockey teams, but can practise (sic) their back hand strokes."

This lamentable spirit of levity extends even to the advertisements, in one of which the "Veteran" is described as "the man on the spot." Which spot, we wonder, has managed to secure the permanent occupancy of our volatile friend ?

* * * * *

The second half of the Lecture and Debate season promises to be even more interesting than the first, and as we understand that the Committee has filled with interesting events the alternate Tuesdays we can thoroughly recommend the half-season tickets at a reduced fee now being offered by the Educational Committee.

ON DIT :

- That the first sod has been turned on the bowling green without ceremony.
- That tense moments in dramatic performances are always accompanied by much moaning at the bar.
- That at lectures the fidgety people always occupy the creaky chairs.
- That the Committee seems never to get any peace during lectures.
- That if the butt-ends of cues were padded another distraction would be gone.
- That the Editor's door knocker was painted at the wrong time this month.
- That as a result the "Green Hand" was exhibited by BRENTHAMITE contributors.

EVENTS.

Lectures, Etc.

The interest in the lectures is being well maintained. On the 31st October Prof. MacGregor Morris talked in simple terms about "Thunder and Lightning," illustrating his remarks by lantern slides and some experiments.

On November 21st Mr. L. H. Soundy was the lecturer, and his subject "Wireless." Messrs. Honor Bros., of The Grove, Ealing, had kindly fitted up an installation free of charge, and precisely at 8 p.m., the receiving apparatus having been adjusted, a wireless Concert broadcasted from Marconi House was heard, and the latest news of the day received. Subsequently Mr. Soundy transmitted from the Reading Room to the Large Hall and then explained to the audience how it was all done—a very interesting evening. On November 25th Captain H. G. Marsfield, aided by some excellent lantern slides, took the audience around the wilds of Yukon.

On the 7th November Mr. John Kinsman spoke in an interesting manner upon the works of W. W. Jacobs, and read one or two of that writer's short stories.

The 14th November was a special night, when Mr. A. C. Dabbs spoke upon "The Women of Shakespeare's Plays." Several charming scenes from the plays were played by Miss Kathleen Lever.

Return Visit of Mr. De Kuiper.

Friday, November 17th, saw a goodly gathering in the Billiard Room to witness the return exhibition of Mr. De Kuiper, the finger billiard exponent. As an exhibition, Mr. De Kuyper's show is probably unique, and many of our billiard enthusiasts would be thankful for a moiety of this wizard's knowledge of the "angles" of a billiard table. In-offs, cannons direct or from one, two or three cushions are all obtained with equal ease, and the series of trick shots which always conclude the entertainment only serve to enhance the reputation of England's finger stroke champion. The collection taken at the interval realised £3 10s. The arrangements for accommodation were in the hands of the steward.

A Mixed Grill.

The Players confirmed my previously expressed views as to the improvement they have made, by giving us four short plays ranging from the pathetically tragic to the boisterously farcical and revealing, in the number who undertook parts, the wealth of individual ability now at the disposal of the Casting Committee.

The best thing of the evening, both as play and as acting, was "Ashes," by Percy Fendall. It is well constructed, compact and witty, and it was excellently presented by Mrs. Solomon and Messrs. Hocking and C. Cooper. Mrs. Solomon did extraordinary well; she hid "Lady Lambert's" real intentions under a cloak of cynical agreement with the blackmailing designs of "Freddy Fowler"; she resisted the temptation to be melodramatic, and she betrayed no undue elation at the success of her plans. Mr. Hocking did well as "Sir James Lambert," the trustful, simple-hearted husband of an able and designing wife, and Mr. C. Cooper, one of the promising younger generation, was a great success as "Freddy Fowler." He maintained well the quiet, restrained, cynical touch that gave character to the whole performance.

"The Burglar and the Girl" gave Mr. Fairchild an excellent opportunity for showing his gifts in characterisation. I have never met a burglar in real life, and I am grateful, therefore, to Mr. Fairchild for showing me so cleverly that a resigned manner may cover a deep design, and to Miss K. Martin for teaching me that the female is, after all, the deadlier of the species. They both did well.

"The Journey's End" suffered as a play from the fact that the long opening had very little to do with the plot. One felt, in turn, that the matrimonial troubles or the enormous and greatly-to-be-envied thirst of "Mr. Briggs" (Mr. A. Collier), the advice to young wives, retailed by "Mr. Blair" (Mr. Ward), or even, perhaps, the red tie of "Mr. Briggs," or the red handkerchief of "Mr. Blair," would in some way prove the key to the story. The writing of the play suggested these ideas, and the undue emphasis given in the acting of the play to some of them appeared to confirm them, but it was not so. The story centred round the rival loves of "Eleanor" and "Ethel" for "Edwin Clements," a philandering youth, who had made the most of his summer holidays. When we got to the story, it was portrayed extremely well. Mr. J. Kinsman made his confession of the wrong-doings of "Edwin Clements" in a very natural manner; Miss D. Carter scored one of the outstanding successes of the evening in her study of "Ethel Blair," and especially in her surrender of her life's hopes to her sister's happiness, and Miss V. Morris did well as "Eleanor Blair," secured in her happiness by her sister's sacrifice and innocently ignorant of the atmosphere of tragedy.

The last item, "The Playgoers," by Pinero, gave me a further chance of seeing that some of the original Players still hold their own against the younger talent now available. Mr. Macfarlane was as expressively humorous as ever; Mrs. Nicholson alternated between high spirits and despair in a way that is peculiarly her own; Mrs. Patten was the 'igh and 'aughty parlourmaid to the life; Mrs. Taylor spoke her lines, as the high-principled housemaid, with the clearness and charm that one remembers so well, and Mr. W. A. Palmer has never been more quaintly and quietly funny than in his character of the "Odd Man." Of those who were new to me, Mrs. Blomeley, as "The Cook," conscious of her position in the hierarchy of the kitchen but apologetic in her dealings with her mistress, did perhaps the best, but Mrs. Cobbett, as the hysterical "Useful Maid," and Miss Salisbury, as the "Kitchen Maid," are also to be congratulated.

A mixed grill, but a very satisfying meal.

QUONDAN.

BRENTHAM CLUB AND INSTITUTE.

THE Contractors have commenced work on the new Bowling Green and the draining operations in the Cricket Field.

The groundsmen will now be able to repair the tennis courts and prepare the alternative hockey pitch ; and we are confident that hard courts, shelters, and other improvements will follow immediately. There is still need for the financial assistance of the members, and the Secretary urges all who have not yet contributed to do so with as little delay as possible.

Improvements and additions to the Institute must be the object of the next Scheme. We have seen the necessity for more seating and stage accommodation, for which the only remedy is a larger hall adapted and fitted for purposes other than dancing ; and the writer is especially hopeful that any new building will include adequate club headquarters for the social, educational, and athletic activities of the younger members. Recreation and reading rooms for the use of the boys every evening are long overdue. The present one evening per week is an absurdity, and though we have some sympathy with members who continually complain to the Secretary of the presence of juniors in the corridors and elsewhere, we must recognise the cause of the trouble, and remedy it before another winter season begins. The Secretary would be glad to hear of anyone willing to extend financial support to an Institute Improvement Scheme which would provide for the needs of the younger residents on the lines indicated, another hall and a library.

All books must be returned to the Library on or before Friday, 22nd December, without regard to the date of issue, for the purpose of stocktaking, etc., and no books will be issued after December 15th until Tuesday, January 9th. A charge of 6d. will be made in respect of a book not returned in accordance with this notice, in addition to any other fine for which a borrower may be liable.

The Hon. Librarian has arranged for an exchange of the volumes from the Borough Library early in the new year.

It is hoped that all members will show their appreciation of the efforts of the Ladies' Section by attending the Sale of Work on Monday, 11th December, the profits on which are to be devoted to the Institute Renovation Fund.

The well-known West End amateurs, the Linden Players, re-introduced by Mr. R. F. Golsworthy, will be giving a performance next month for the Institute funds, and a matinee on behalf of St. David's Home. Particulars will be given in the next issue of THE BRENTHAMITE.

If any allotment holders have decided to discontinue their tenancies after the present year, the Secretary would be glad to have an intimation at once, as there are applicants for vacant plots.

Full particulars of all Christmas and New Year arrangements will be posted in the Institute and notified in the local press. The arrangements will be much on the same lines as last year. Special attention is drawn to the Sale of Work organised by the Ladies Section on December 11th. Admission will be free, and members will have the opportunity of purchasing their Christmas gifts on advantageous terms. The whole of the proceeds will go towards the Institute's funds, and the Hon. Secretary, Mrs. A. E. Deed, of 30, Brunner Road, will be pleased to receive gifts in the shape of articles which can be sold for the benefit of the funds.

Tickets are now on sale for the Children's Operetta, and it is hoped that as many residents as possible will support it. Rehearsals denote that it will be even better than last year.

Members of the Social Committee are particularly requested to send a deputy if they are unable to be present at any particular meeting

Golf Club.

The season's competitions have been brought to a close during the past month, and the two challenge cups will once again change hands: Mr. C. Palmer taking the championship cup from Mr. Levasseur and at the same time handing the charity cup over to Mr. A. J. Toms.

Messrs. Turner and Toms fell victims to Messrs. Palmer and Levasseur in the semi-final of the championship, leaving the two latter gentlemen to fight for the final as was the case last season, only this season the result was reversed.

Miss Brampton won the Ladies Championship by defeating Mrs. Cooper in the final tie, this result was somewhat anticipated, although I must congratulate the loser in reaching the final.

Our indoor social event, which is taking place on Thursday, December 7th, should be a very fitting termination to a very successful season.

Arrangements are being made for a bumper attendance; the tickets are going like hot cakes, which is very gratifying from the point of view that the financial balance is going to augment our hospital fund. This event is to be in the form of a whist drive; the prizes will be worth winning and the price of admission is the modest sum of 2/-, which will include light refreshments. I understand the committee have a few tickets left at the time of writing.

Bowling Club.

Most members I think are aware that the contract for the relaying of the green has not only been signed but the work has actually begun and will no doubt be proceeded with at the utmost speed.

The cost of a new green has greatly exceeded the amount first estimated and more investments in the Improvement Scheme are therefore required. I think the investment is a sound one and should appeal to every Bowler. It not only produces interest at 5 per cent per annum, but also provides a first class green.

Bowlers have supported the scheme generously, but in view of the expensive work being carried out on the green all members who can make an investment or a further investment are asked to do so now. Just hand your money to the Bowls Secretary or Mr. Taylor—quite simple, no fuss, no bother.

There is no need to say anything about the 24th November ; those who were present know : and it would be unkind to tell those who stayed away as we shall not have another till next November.

S.

Horticultural Society.

The Annual General Meeting will be held in the Small Hall at 8 p.m. on Thursday, December 7th, 1922. Nominations are invited and will be accepted by the Hon. Secretary up to the time of election, for the following offices :—President, Vice-Presidents, Secretary, Treasurer, Trading Secretary, Committee, Auditors.

Owing to the satisfactory financial position of the Society the Committee will recommend the immediate repayment of all outstanding trading loans.

There are a number of choice bulbs still on hand at the shed. The Trading Secretary will be glad if the members will kindly assist him to clear the stock.

Billiards.

The 2nd visit of Mr. De Kuyper was well attended and appreciated. Our thanks are due to Mr. Clarke, the Steward, for his admirable arrangement of "The Room." There was quite a number of fresh faces present and the Committee hopes to see them quite frequently.

In each Handicap the first round is practically complete and round two is about to be drawn. So come along you survivors and see the notice board for information as to your luck in the matter of opponents. The Central Committee has generously made the entrance fees up to £11, £5 10s. od. for each handicap.

The popularity of "The Room" continues to increase. New members coming along will be heartily welcomed on making themselves known to any member of the Committee. As far as the billiards arrangements are concerned they will not regret joining the Brentham Club and Institute.

THERE are many factors operating for success or failure in connection with the selection of a Car or Motor Cycle, and those contemplating purchasing a 1923 Model would be well advised to refrain from a hasty decision. We have inspected all the new models and shall be happy to assist you in the selection ; moreover, we should allow no machine supplied through us to leave our hands unless and until we had satisfied ourselves that it was up to the Manufacturer's standard as, even with the best of Manufacturers, an indifferent product slips through sometimes.

Children's Section.

The various branches of this Section are now in full swing.

The attendance at the Dance is being well sustained, while the interest in the Boys' room is evidenced by the number present. The only drawback is that the games at the disposal of the young members are so limited that many of them unfortunately only experience the rather uncertain pleasure of either looking on or indulging in "unorganised" games.

The Rehearsals of the forthcoming Operetta are proceeding very satisfactorily and it is to be hoped that Mr. Collinson's ambitions with regard to the assistance of an orchestra will be thoroughly realized.

The publicity arrangements for the Operetta have been placed in the capable hands of Mr. Sutton and, I understand, the tickets are now in circulation.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL.—Both teams have had some enjoyable games. The Senior team playing two hard games with the 7th Ealing Scouts and Perivale United and just losing, but finishing the month with a splendid win over Ealing Y.M.C.A., scoring 9 goals without response.

It is interesting to know that one or two of our members have been invited to play for the Senior team and we have, at least, one other player who is shaping extremely well in a position which is always very difficult to fill in any team.

The Juniors have played Southfields and St. Mary's winning both by 7-3 and 5-4 respectively.

During the month, several of the Juniors have played for the Senior team and have displayed very creditable form.

Educational.

French—Miss Wallas's class is proceeding very satisfactorily. Mr. W. Palmer is the Class Secretary.

Painting—Mr. Martin's class is making good progress. There is room for a few additional pupils.

Drawing—At Mr. Kit Hutton's class all kinds of drawing and design is being taught and already the pupils are showing marked improvement.

In the case of all these classes the present term finishes at the end of this month, and further terms will be arranged from January to the end of March. New students will be welcomed at the commencement of the new term in January.

Ex-Service Men's Association.

Two hundred and three members and friends attended the Fourth Annual Re-Union on Armistice Night. The old trouble of accommodation, however, gave the Committee some very anxious moments.

The Hall will seat 150 at supper in comfort, and our only hope at the moment is for the New Hall to be ready for the next Re-Union.

Mr. Ephgrave's Roll of Members contain 54 names to date (25/11/22) and it is hoped that those desirous of appearing on this Roll will get into touch with him.

Arrangements are being made for a Smoking Concert for Members to be held in the Institute soon after Xmas.

The Committee have long been of the opinion that a branch of the British Legion is needed in North Ealing, and a General Meeting will be held in the New Year, open to all ex-service men in the district, with this object in view.

The Committee are in communication with British Legion Headquarters, who have assured us through their Area Organiser that there will be no difficulty in getting Sir Ian Hamilton to address such a meeting. Further details will be announced later.

Brentham Players.

Yet another evening has to be added to Players growing record of successes : November 18th. The production of four items on one evening entails a lot of work especially on so small a stage, and I take this opportunity of thanking all those who worked behind the scenes with the curtains, lights and changing. They considerably helped the performers in making the show a great success.

When is something going to be done about the new Hall? Money, I know, does not grow on bushes, but in the absence of a new building surely the Hall is capable of enlargement at no very great expense. We have to refuse people tickets because there is no more room. The plaster partition at the stage end of the Hall should at least be made into a sliding partition easily removable and this alone would add greatly to the seating accommodation, making far greater comfort for all present and incidentally more revenue for everybody concerned. Now then, Central Committee, why not reconsider the whole position between now and January the 6th when we produce "The Case of Lady Camber" by H. A. Vachell.

Owing to the intervention of the Christmas festivities a slight alteration will be made in the distribution of tickets for the next performance. For members the evening will be Wednesday, December 27th, after 8 p.m. Selling will commence on the 28th inst. Will all members please note and come for their tickets on the Wednesday and so avoid disappointment and grumbling.

After many years of work for the Society Mr. Fairchild has felt reluctantly compelled to resign from the Committee and his place has been taken by Mr. J. Milton.

Football Club

The first eleven played a splendid game against the Ealing United Services Club at Brentham, on 11th November, in the 2nd round of the Ealing Hospital Cup, defeating their opponents by three goals to two. Salisbury, Millard, and Line (from a penalty kick) were the marksmen. This win was an exceptionally good performance, seeing that the E.U.S. were only beaten on one occasion last season. Unfortunately two of our best men were injured namely F. Hender and C. Salisbury, and their loss is reflected to a certain extent in the 2nd XI results for last month. I'm sure we all wish Frank and Charlie a speedy recovery and return to our ranks.
